

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for producing a fixed display panel using a matrix display panel. In the method, the holding state of memory elements of a plurality of pixels of the matrix display panel is changed to one of two values, in accordance with the predetermined fixed pattern,  $m$  driving lines are jointly connected as a first electrode and  $n$  scanning lines are jointly connected as a second electrode.